HIGHLAND
PUBLIC SCHOOL
DISTRICT NUMBER 15

Through the doors of Highland High School pass tomorrow's leaders in science, industry, society, and government. The many experiences we encounter during our high school years become indelible parts of us and give us the skills necessary to achieve success. Books and teachers instill in our minds the ideas of ages past that provide a sturdy foundation upon which we build for the future. The friendships, laughter, and sharing, as much a part of high school as is English, give meaning to the success for which we strive.

The Iris staff offers this yearbook as a key with which you can unlock the door to experiences that are not really gone forever, but are only as far away as the nearest memory. Walk with us through the familiar doors of H.H.S. to visit once again the people, places, laughter, and tears which made that wonderful year 1966 a year to remember.

Through These

Scientists . . .

The doors of Highland High are a gateway to an infinite variety of occupations. Classes ranging from chemistry, to English, to home economics prepare students to accept responsible positions in tomorrow's world. Students receive a liberal education as well as knowledge fundamental to their future jobs.

Doors Pass Tomorrow's . . .

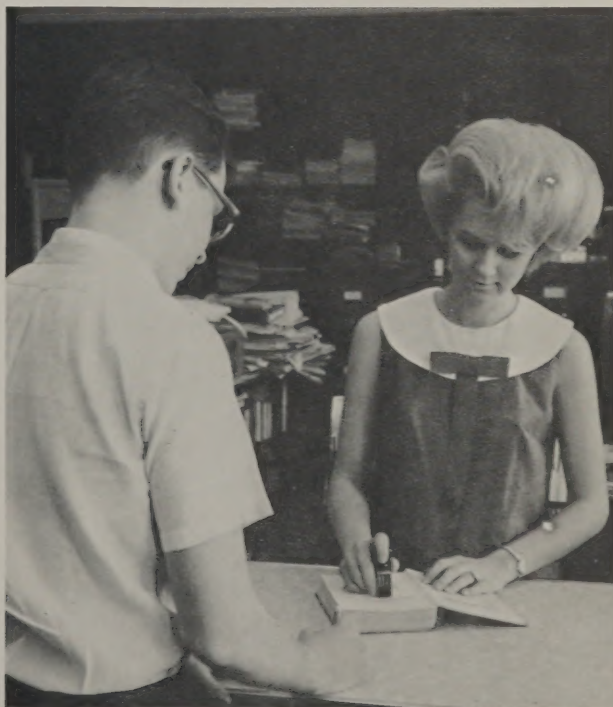

Dan Yann, Dave Mason, and Larry Dively gain skills in the use of complicated machines in industrial education classes.

Machinists . . .

Writers . . .

Prose and poetry flow from the pen of Candy Stratton who hopes to find a career in the literary world.

A capable librarian, Margo Ammann, checks out a book for Jim Kerin.

Librarians . . .

Linguists . . .

The language lab aids Clyde Henderson and Dede Wilson in learning French.

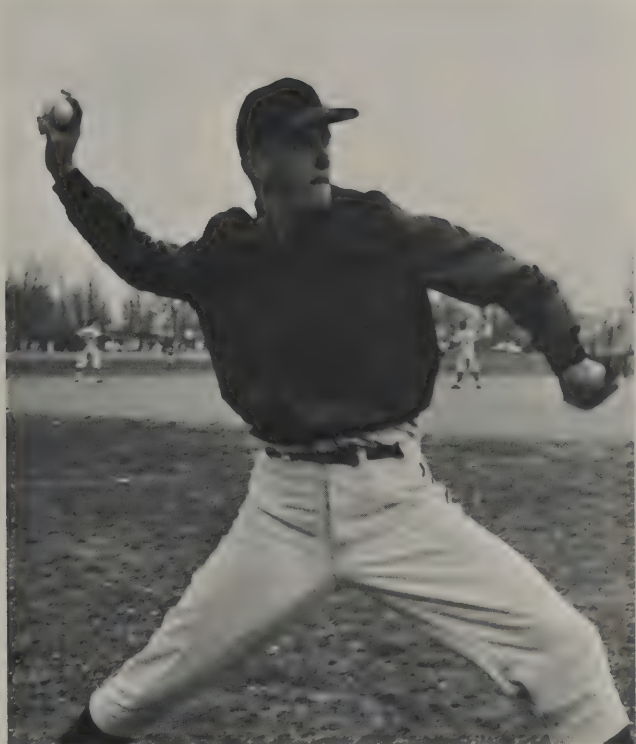

Kxok's Steven B. Stevens explains the absence of his button to Nancy Rutz by telling her that his tailor is Jack the Ripper.

Homemakers . . .

Books alone cannot train students for space-age living; they are merely the foundation upon which dedicated instructors build. Teachers are aided in their never-ending task by Highland High's many educational facilities. The equipment of the language lab, home economics kitchens, and shop plays an important part in educating students.

The process of learning goes on each day in an endless number of ways. Many students pursue their education through the Independent Study Program which gives them an opportunity to progress at their own speed in science, language arts, and social science. Education does not stop when the bell rings. Students glean meaningful learning experiences on the baseball diamond, the stage, and in group meetings of all kinds. The quest for knowledge leads a student many places, and he realizes quickly that learning can be fun.

Athletes . . .

A sturdy pitching arm makes Dean Burk a valuable prospect for major league baseball.

Musicians . . .

Ben Jay Alarcon "slides out" a victory tune for the Bulldogs.

"Great Caesar's Ghost!" is exactly Bob Ullman's reaction to the antics of the mischievous spirit of the Junior Class Play.

Actors . . .

Too many cooks may spoil the broth, but in the case of this home problems class, Darrell Riegel, Junior Lebegue, Donna Koelz, and Karen Eiler only enhance the flavor.

With the deft strokes of professionals, Del Klaustermeier and Debby Zobrist put finishing touches on their sketches.

Education Opens Many Doors

Opportunities offered by education are many and varied. Students of H.H.S. leave none of these fields unexplored. Creating new dishes in home economics, exploring a new world seen only through a microscope, or becoming proficient in a foreign language open the doors of the future for many students. Students find lasting friendships as they participate in classroom discussions and clubs and activities throughout the school year.

Amid cries of laughter, our "Triad" cheerleaders, Darrell Conrad, Gregg Hecht, Allen Blue, and Barry Schuepbach, instilled confidence and pep into the fans hoping for a regional victory.

Learning Has Many Faces

Interschool rivalry, an exciting game, overtime, and a regional victory over Triad results in mass confusion and sheer joy as the fans congratulate the Bulldogs.

A face filled with anxiety, then despair, desperation, and finally victory . . . these are only a few expressions of thought evident during the process of learning. Agonies felt before a difficult examination are as much a part of learning as fun-filled initiations. Sportsmanship, leadership, friendship, and many gratifying memories are gained from football and basketball games, from dances, and from the ever-changing student life.

"I've got it!" Inspiration finally dawns as Sandy Moser ponders over a difficult examination.

Mr. Hilbert lends a hand to help Sharon Wolz initiate her unsuspecting little sister, Jolene Orrell.

Friendships Grow Through Understanding

Language is no barrier as Mrs. Houseman, Candy Stratton, Tanis Houseman, Miss Artigas, Mrs. Alarcon, Wanda Weder, and Nancy Bosche enjoy a delicious dinner. Miss Artigas was an exchange teacher for Mrs. Alarcon's Spanish classes.

Among the G.A.A.'s many activities was entertaining at the Highland Home.

Big sisters, Sandy Kunz and Sharon Kraigher, throw "friendly" snowballs at G.A.A. initiates, Nancy Bastilla and Jackie Lang.

Fred Bircher, Adrian Rogier, Brian Siever, and Craig Manwaring offer a rousing rendition of "New Country Cornflakes" for a speech class assembly.

Joe Michaelis and Kay Rogers used their snow day to slide down the white slopes of the school grounds.

Foreign exchange students enjoy H.H.S. hospitality during the American Field Service assembly.

Experience, as the saying goes, is the best teacher. Students are given many opportunities to gain leadership experience at H.H.S. The many class and club offices present excellent opportunities for practice in guiding others. Leaders are needed in the classroom, on the basketball floor, and even at the typewriter.

Mr. Thalman explains a wood finishing process to a group of juniors who visited Wicks Organ Company on Manufacturers' Day.

We Learn Today To Lead Tomorrow

Tanis Houseman spent many hours banging out her "In the Halls of H.H.S." column for the Highland News Leader.

Awards Day shined the spotlight on several senior leaders. Chuck Roe was awarded the Menz Award. He and Wanda Weder were recipients of the American Legion citizenship awards. Sandy Moser received the Dee Boulanger Memorial Award and Janice McClay accepted the Speech Award.

Adrian Rogier accepts the trophy for making the highest number of free throws during the basketball season.

Activities

Queen candidates, Sandy Kunz, Sharon Kraigher, and Jeanine Loyet smile happily as they await the start of the parade.

A holiday atmosphere engulfed H.H.S. as Homecoming, the busiest weekend of the year, approached. For weeks in advance members from classes and organizations put their heads together in hopes of building a winning float. A theme of "Holiday Festivals" lent itself beautifully to the creative genius of students. The floats represented a year of gay festivals ranging from Columbus Day to Christmas.

An air of excitement trapped everyone involved in the parade. Band members tuned their instruments, and industrious float builders completed last minute preparations as the parade line formed. Highland High's marching band struck-up a lively tune, and the parade wound its course around the town square to return to school.

The court bows low in front of the newly crowned royalty.

A spirit-raising bonfire, stirring pep fests, a colorful parade, victory over St. Elmo 57-14 and still the tension of Homecoming weekend mounted. Gathered in the gym on Saturday night was a capacity crowd, hushed and excited to discover who would reign as king and queen of H.H.S. for 1965-66.

Twelve junior and senior girls, chosen by their classmates and escorted by twelve boys also selected by vote entered the gym to pay homage to the audience and to retiring king and queen Kent Iberg and Lynn Roberts. The spotlight then once again turned to the colorfully decorated entrance and a breathless audience watched as two radiant special maids, Sharon Kraigher escorted by Barry Schuepbach and Jeanine Loyet escorted by Terry Metzger, entered and took their places on the stage.

With appropriate fanfare, mistress of ceremonies Nancy Bosche announced the entrance of H.H.S.'s chosen two—Queen Sandy Kunz and King Adrian Rogier. The tension and excitement of Homecoming 1965 ended in a burst of applause as with poise and dignity the new royalty of H.H.S. began their reign over an audience of loyal subjects.

Color dominated the 1965 Homecoming Coronation. Against a background of red, yellow, and orange autumn leaves, maids, dressed in a rainbow of hues to match the season, added sparkling smiles to put the finishing touches on the decorations. No one would ever have guessed that beneath the beaming faces, each girl feared she would slip as she made her bows and her handsome escort feared stepping on her gown at a most inappropriate time. But qualms were unnecessary as each couple performed the traditional ceremony without flaw.

The snows of winter found Highland High students dancing merrily at the Christmas Hop in Toyland or at several soc-hops sponsored by clubs and classes after games. In spring the Student Council went casual for its Greenwich Village Backwards Dance, and the girls took the initiative by playing escorts for the evening.

Soc-hops after football and basketball games provided good times to dance and to visit with friends.

From Toyland to Greenwich Village

Brad Winter and Wanda Weder welcome fellow beatniks Darrell Gentry, Jan Weder, Kay Rogers, and Dave Volz to the Greenwich Village Backwards Dance.

Upon their arrival at the Castle Camelot, guests were guided across the drawbridge into the court yard where stood the majestic sword and anvil of King Arthur fame.

A Fleeting Wisp of Glory . . .

The late hour took its toll on the already tired dancers while a few stalwarts watched the movie, Don Quixote.

Part of the entertainment during the intermission was the fabulous feminine dances of Bob Ullman, Jim Schmidt, Mel Roberts, and Dave Volz.

Couples dance to the music of the Del-Rays in the beautiful ballroom of King Arthur's Court.

In King Arthur's time, one had to be a lord or a lady to be invited to a royal ball, but on April 26, 1966, the Junior Class made such an invitation possible for everyone. Long hours of planning and hard work transformed the gym into a sparkling ballroom and the foyer into a courtyard complete with drawbridge, moat, and alligator. The swinging music of the Del-Rays, the humor of the movie Don Quixote and the early morning breakfast too soon brought the evening to a close, and the guests stepped back into life in the twentieth century with only a memory of an unforgettable prom.

Even the faculty enjoyed themselves in their place of honor beneath the shield.

Darrell Conrad, Areba Henry, Eric White, Carol Hill, and Dianne Sautter mourn the "invisible" Penelope Maxwell and Phoebe DeRoyster.

"But, Hattie, I didn't take your cake!" exclaims Russ Winter to indignant Adrienne Ulrich as Bob Ullman and Gale Dickerson look on.

Special effects committee, Denny Bargetzi, Jim Schmidt and Jerry Weber receive praise from Mrs. Bastilla, director, Diana Strotheide and Jackie Sentenne, student directors.

Hard work and late hours awarded the juniors a well received play. "Great Caesar's Ghost" centered around two scatter-brained ladies who create near-disaster when they become involved with a bogus Maharajah. The comedy and convincing special effects, with the help and direction of all involved, produced a play to remember.

Characterize Class Plays

Time: Midnight, the time a rich man's will is to be read.
Place: An ideal setting for a mystery ... an old haunted house on a hill ... a phantom and a mystery writer thrown in for effect. The result: A well-produced Senior Class play. Credit goes to the convincing cast, the hard-working stage crew, student directors, and director Mrs. Bastilla—all who worked together to produce the laugh-filled mystery, "The Phantom Strikes Again."

Sharon Wolz gets Rich Sander ready for the evening performance.

An excited cast tries to revive Wentworth, one of the phantom's victims.

Boys' Intramurals Provide for Excess Energy

Excitement, close competition, and fast action prevail as Mr. Kesner puts the ball in action for Dave Givens and Mike Miller.

The second year of intramurals at H.H.S. proved to be as successful as the first, for again many boys participated. This year the program, directed by Mr. Roger Kesner, included softball, flag football and basketball. Through intramurals boys who like sports, but are not participating in an interscholastic sport, are given the opportunity to join in spirited competition.

In an exciting game of flag football, the two opposing teams prepare for a decisive play.

Organizations

Highland High School's band settled down to a normal schedule this year after its exciting World's Fair trip in summer 1965. The musicians performed at the annual U. of I. Band Day, in several parades, and at three concerts. Many of the members represented the school at country and district band festivals. The marching band and majorettes worked out clever half-time shows to be presented at football games. The stage band and pep band played light and jazzy tunes at basketball games and school functions.

Members of the band display devotion and determination as they devote hours each week to regular practices, conference periods to sectional rehearsals, and evenings to extra practices and concerts. Director Lyon probably had several anxious days before each concert, but the band never disappointed him in the final performances.

Half-time Shows, Concerts, and

The increasingly popular stage band worked up peppy numbers for performances at assemblies, pep rallies, and half-times at basketball games.

Chorus Participates in Exchange

Long hours of practice by the various choral groups at H.H.S. resulted in a throng of voices united in song. The members participated in concerts, festivals, clinics, and exchange performances with Wesclin and Triad. Under the direction of Mr. Davis, a new group called the Madrigal Singers came alive with the sounds of rounds and madrigals of old, intermingled with a few modern numbers. Three members of the A Cappella, Nancy Bosche', Curt Messerli, and Doug Schoen, were honored by being selected to sing in the Illinois All-State Chorus.

The public heard evidence of all of the preparation and hard work of the groups at the Spring Choral Concert. The concert included numbers of all characters, ending with selections and readings from "How the West Was Won".

Members of the Boys' Octet humbly accept the applause of the people at the Highland Home.

Long staff meetings meant eating on the job. Staff members Wanda Weder, Craig Louer, Carol Hill, Lynne Rosenthal, Patti Mettler, and Bonnie Callahan enjoy a supper break.

The Iris staff's yearly project is one which is taken for granted by most students. Nevertheless, the success of a yearbook depends upon the dedication of the staff and upon the hours and hours of time spent during and after school to plan layouts, to take pictures, to write copy, and to sell subscriptions and advertising.

The staff is divided into groups headed by editors, one for each section of the yearbook. The business staff is a rather separate group, also headed by an editor. The editor-in-chief and the advisor supervise the synchronization of all the sections into one coherent and interesting finished product.

This year the staff met twice weekly, usually from 4:00 in the afternoon until 8:30 in the evening. Innovations in this year's yearbook include the color inside the book and linotype printing which enables the staff to control print size. The staff is grateful to our advertisers who made these costly improvements possible without additional cost per book to our students.

Bulldog typists are SEATED: Barb Ketchum, Donna Hosto, Carol Eilers. STANDING: Patty Suess, Kay Wall, Sharon Koch, Nancy Schwarz, Sandy Kunz, Gay Linenfelter, Suellen Palmer, Diane Conrad, Joan Abert.

Although the Bulldog staff did not function as an organization this year, the school paper was published monthly by Mrs. Neathery's vocational business education students. Articles for the paper were written by students in the various English classes. The work of typing, mimeographing, and assembling the paper was then passed on to the business education students. These people did this work during study halls, free time, and after school. Through their efforts, H.H.S. can boast of a fine monthly newspaper.

Student Librarians Assist Mrs. Page in the Library

Fourteen student librarians proved their worth to Mrs. Page, our school librarian, during this year. These students, members of the Library Club, lent helping hands to baffled classmates, designed and maintained attractive bulletin boards, checked out books and magazines, and kept a quiet and studious atmosphere in the library at all times.

The club took a trip to St. Louis as an extra activity. The members visited the Washington University library and the St. Louis Public Library. Their hard work and willingly-spent time were rewarded at a Christmas party and a spring picnic.

Members of the Future Teachers of America are FIRST ROW: Ann DeHorn, President Faye Ruehrup, Marilyn King, Mary Maerz, Sandy Moser, Patty Maerz, Sandy Drda, Nancy Bosche, Donna Jenny, Diana Strottheide, Areba Henry. F.T.A. Learns of Teaching Profession

Future Teachers of America, a club which gives its members a keyhole view of the teaching profession, offered an array of valuable information to its members this year. Some of its members were given the chance to actually sit in on classes to observe teaching methods. At one of the most informative meetings, the members heard lectures given by student teachers from Greenville College. As a farewell to the senior members, underclassmen members organized a picnic at the City Lake.

Mr. and Mrs. McDonald, Marilyn King, and Mary Maerz enjoy some experience in outdoor cooking.

Bonnie Callahan, Dianne Sautter, and Jackie Sentenne ride in the F.T.A. car in the Homecoming parade.

Art Club Visits St. Louis Landmarks

Some of Highland High's most creative students are members of the Art Club. The club cooperated during classtime to create a second-place winning float in this year's Homecoming parade. Members finished out the year by taking an all day trip to St. Louis where they observed statues, fountains, architecture, and other forms of art. From their trip organization members gained many useful and creative ideas for future art projects.

N.H.S. Inducts Eleven

Steven B. Stevens provided the keynote speech for this year's induction of new National Honor Society members. The program, "Great Americans," carried out the theme as eleven juniors and seniors were chosen to be added to the organizations roll.

The society's projects this year included compiling and selling Dial-Dope school directories, sponsoring a sock hop, and operating a summer job-finding file. The National Honor Society upheld its standards of character, leadership, service, and scholarship.

Junior members of the National Honor Society are Diana Strotteide, Sandy Long, Bob Ullman, Lynne Rosenthal, Emily Werder, Jan Widmer

Steven B. Stevens stands before the silhouettes of two great Americans.

Even this French artist was sure of a victory at Homecoming.

During this year, the French Club had several interesting and informative meetings. The members studied the many varied and colorful aspects of French life, language, and culture. Since one requirement of the club is to have taken at least one year of French, this club gives its members an opportunity to make use of what they have learned. For the Homecoming parade, the members cleverly decorated the back of a pick-up truck.

French Club Explores French Culture

French Club members are FIRST ROW: Keith Rutz, David Rehberger, Darrell Gentry, President Eric White, Craig Manwarning, Brian Siever, Bob Ullman, Clyde Henderson. SECOND ROW: Jan Nihiser, Gary Henschen, Vice-President Neal Niggli, Judy Huber, Sue Davis, Susie Metzger, Secretary Marilyn Liebler, Jan Linenfelser, Dede Wilson, Pat Winet, Sandy Moser, Treasurer Lester Davis, Mike Bastilla. J.C.L. Awakens Spirit of Ancient Rome

Ancient Rome's heritage and language were brought to life to members of the Junior Classical League through its various activities throughout the year. The big event of the year was the banquet and slave auction in the late spring. Newer members were sold to the veteran members and were required to serve at the banquet.

Mary Frey, Cheri Bargetzi, and Pat Allen represented J.C.L. at the district Latin contest. They received recognition for their high ratings at the Roman Banquet.

Neal Niggli is at the service of his "owner," Brad Winter, at the Roman Banquet.

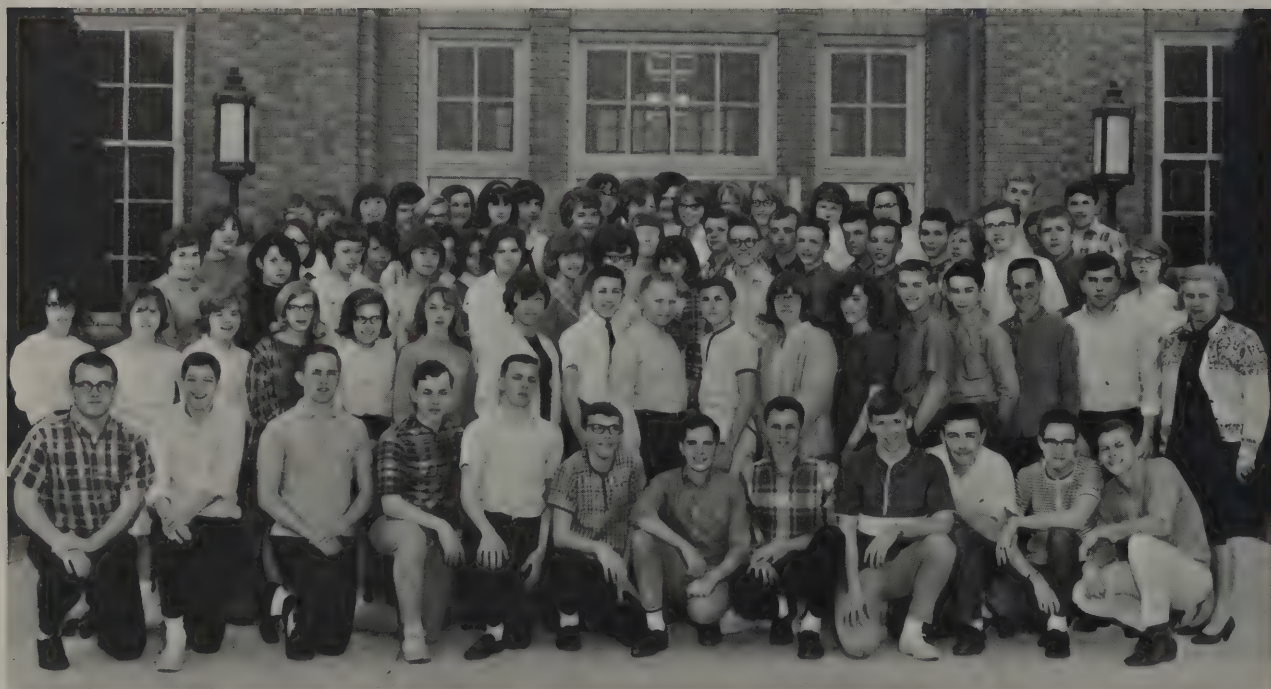

Mrs. Roe congratulates Cheri Bargetzi, Pat Allen, and Mary Frey for their performance in the district contest.

Spanish Club

The Spanish Club float was a sample of the artistic abilities of some of the hard working members.

This year's Spanish Club continued its tradition of being one of the largest and most active of the language-connected clubs in the school. Members heard talks and saw films and slides depicting the culture of the Spanish-speaking peoples. They also contributed to the American Field Service fund and to the Spanish Pavilion Fund in St. Louis. In this way they took an active part in bringing the real foreign culture to the United States. The final Spanish Club fling was the party in May. There were skits, talks, musical numbers, games, and genuine Mexican food for all to enjoy. The year's ventures were indeed successful.

Young Scientists Hear Interesting Talks

Highland High School's Science Club is not yet a "famous" organization boasting of a large membership; however, it is well on the way to becoming one of the most popular groups for students who are sincerely interested in scientific areas of study. Meetings are interesting as well as helpful to members. This year the organization held its meetings on Thursday evenings. Lectures and films on topics such as photography, space, and other current trends in the field of science constituted most of the informative programs.

Student Council

Student Council Week in late April and the "Greenwich Village A Go-Go" dance in May climaxed a year of activities for the governing body of H.H.S. The Council made progress in promoting better student participation by issuing weekly bulletins and encouraging written comments on Council decisions. The organization enthusiastically supported a school drive in connection with the American Field Service to help raise funds to get a foreign exchange student to H.H.S. The proceeds of the activities of Student Council Week, as well as an additional $100 went for this cause. The Council also did some re-evaluation of its own purposes and motives. A committee revised parts of the constitution to fit the organization's present needs. Two members, Carol Bosche and Emily Werder, attended the state convention in Chicago and gained new ideas for the future of our Council.

Ind. Ed. Club Promotes Interest in Vocational Skills

Young men interested in vocational education courses are organized into the Industrial Education Club under the supervision of Mr. Roe. Each year the organization undertakes service projects and tours an industrial plant in the area to learn more of the skills and requirements necessary for employment. Besides increasing their knowledge of vocational skills, this club gives the boys a chance to compete in basketball contests throughout the winter months.

A "Ouija" board cannot solve all homemaking problems, but it seems to have captivated Judy Huber, Karen Eiler, Diane Hediger, Normae Dorsch, and Nancy Kaufman at an F.H.A. play night.

F.H.A. formal initiations are impressive candlelight ceremonies. Below President Nancy Schwarz and other officers lead the ceremonies as new members, holding roses, the F.H.A. flower, participate.

Although many of the activities of the Future Homemakers of America center around fun and fellowship, Highland High's chapter has been active in service projects as well. Members have been busy reorganizing and enlarging their organization. They have continued to participate in functions on the district and state chapter levels. This year the girls again maintained the refreshment stands at the football games and the coat check at the basketball games. At Homecoming they once again teamed up with F.F.A. to create a commendable float for the parade. In addition to including many evening activities and get-togethers in its program, the organization has also adopted a Vietnamese child with whom the girls correspond as well as aid financially.

Through the many and varied activities of F.H.A., members gain a better understanding of homemaking problems and an opportunity to serve and work with others.

FFA Studies Farm Improvements

Highland's chapter of the Future Farmers of America, sponsored by Mr. Eiler, visited farms to see the results of home projects. At regular meetings, members discussed methods of farm improvement and shared the results of their experiments with one another. A highlight of the year was the annual Father-Son Banquet held in the spring.

Highland High's athletes, the members of the Lettermen's Club, have set records and thrilled crowds during their sports exhibitions. When not in competition, these same boys have sold game programs, kept current headlines on the school billboard, and sponsored a soc-hop. This year's Lettermen's Club has had a successful and an active year.

A wild two days at Black River Lodge topped off a year of fun in athletics for the Girls' Athletic Association. Throughout their eventful year, the members competed enthusiastically in both group and team sports and in individual contests. As compensation for their faithful participation, the girls who had earned enough points received letters and pins on Awards Day.

G.A.A. created an attractive third-place winning Homecoming float in the fall. During the winter months, the girls sold candy galore to raise money for the activities of their organization. As a community project, they entertained the folks at the Highland Home in the early spring.

New members were initiated both formally and informally. Despite their exhaustion and bedraggled looks during informal initiation day, the new members displayed the energy, joy, and satisfaction evident in all of the members of this fine organization.

A sale of black derbies inspired a "Hats off to the Bulldogs!" campaign.

It wasn't mere coincidence that eighty students wore red and black to all basketball games this past season! These fans were loyal members of Highland High's Pep Club. Under the leadership of their officers, President Neal Niggli, Vice president Carol Bosche, Secretary Kathy Wenzel, and Treasurer Betsy Nungesser, the club organized a new constitution. Members had an active year, making posters, selling buttons and derbies, and promoting school spirit at all games and pep rallies.

Before the football season, many "experts" predicted that the Highland football team would have a poor season. Instead, the Cinderella squad did almost as well as last year's conference winning team. Highland finished the season with a 7 and 2 record and was second in the conference behind oversized Cahokia. The gridsman won the Staunton Jamboree by beating Hillsboro on yard gainage and edging Staunton 6 to 0. The team surpassed the old school record for most points scored in a game by tromping St. Elmo 57 to 14 on Homecoming. They also broke last year's record for total points in a season with 251.

Cross-country is a grueling sport with little fame. Each boy pits his stamina against that of others. Cross-country consists of a two-mile endurance test. The first five men of each team receive points corresponding to their places, and the team with the lowest score wins. The first seven Highland runners were Tom Campbell, Adrian Rogier, Greg Hecht, Chuck Roe, Bob Ullman, Dave Rehberger, and Mark Frey. Although the team had a disappointing season, it did score victories over Roxana, Cahokia, Madison, Dupo, Edwardsville, Nashville, Freeburg, and Western Military. In the conference meet the team slipped to fourth place with Roxana winning the title. Tom Campbell won medals at the Triad Invitational and the conference meet at Roxana. Adrian Rogier also won a medal at the conference meet.

At a pep rally the cheerleaders lead the student body in "Battle Cry," a very popular cheer.

Much of the success of making this an outstanding year in athletics resulted from the work and cooperation of our cheerleaders. To be victorious a team needs enthusiastic fans, and the H.H.S. cheerleaders led the rousing yells to back our football and basketball squads. Whether they shivered in the frosty football weather or watched the speedy basketball games, our cheerleaders continued to boost our teams on to victories. The girls who gave their time and talents to cheer the Bulldogs on to a winning season deserve a vote of thanks.

H.H.S. Giants Capture Two Crowns

All-conference forward Craig Manwaring drops in a bucket.

Coach Talley plays the game from the bench in a tense moment.

Hoarse but exuberant fans roared as the Bulldogs won a heart-stopping overtime victory over East St. Louis to gain a second consecutive Mater Dei Holiday Tournament championship. Who can forget Highland's come-from-behind heroics, the missed free throw that sent the game into overtime, and the Bulldog's surge to victory? Coach Talley's Bulldogs were at their finest when they crushed the Cahokia Comanches, the conference champs, 84 to 67. However, Highland slipped to fourth place in the Midwestern Conference with a 6 and 4 mark.

In the regionals the Bulldogs provided their enthusiastic fans another thrill by edging Triad 70 to 68 in an overtime to win the tournament after twice whipping the Knights during the season. But in the East St. Louis sectional Highland folded to Gillespie in a 75 to 70 upset and had its state-tourney hopes shattered. The Bulldogs finished with a fine 22 and 5 record.

The Junior varsity under Coach Fred Singleton had a 15 and 4 record and showed high prospects for next year by leading the conference B-teams. Dennis Warning led the team in scoring with 349 points.

Ends Season With 22 and 5 Mark

Highland was provided a high-scoring and successful season by a tall Bulldog team. Craig Manwaring, junior forward, once again was named to the Midwestern all-conference team. He averaged 21.3 points and led the squad with 586. Dean Burk, senior center, was on the second all-conference team and led in the rebounding department with 356. Tom Campbell, captain and senior forward, also was named on the second all-conference team. Adrian Rogier, a senior guard, received honorable mention in the all-conference selections and narrowly topped Tom for the team's highest free throw percentage with 76%. Brian Siever, a junior guard, had the team high with 131 assists. Darrell Riegel, senior guard, was a superb ball handler and defensive man; and Terry Jakel, a junior, provided extra rebounding power.

Burk Selected Athlete of the Year

Dean Burk climaxed his high school achievements by being honored as Athlete of the Year at the annual Awards Day on May 20, 1966. The award is given to the senior athlete chosen by his fellow lettermen and coaches as the athlete who cooperated best and contributed most to the sports in which he participated.

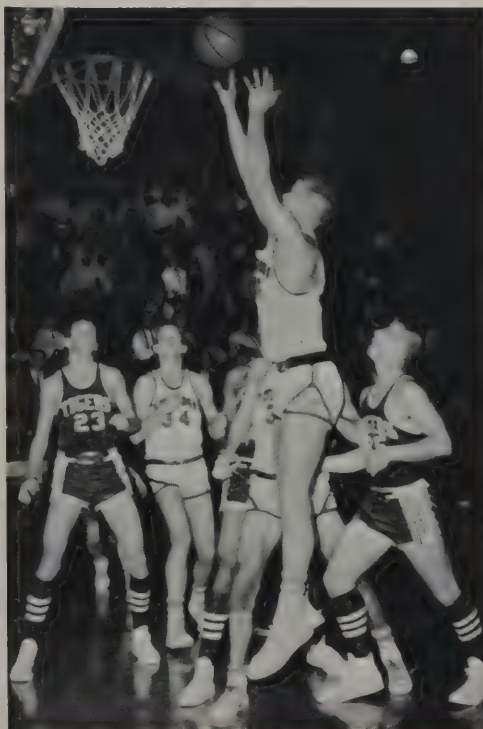

Dean has been in Highland High School for only one year. His first three years of high school were at Lebanon, Illinois. He has received nine letters in baseball and basketball. Last year, along with getting a medal for being most valuable player on the baseball team, he was chosen pitcher on the All-East Metro baseball team. This year he was elected to the second all-conference basketball team.

Dean is a member of the Lettermen's Club, Pep Club, and secretary of the Industrial Education Club.

Conference Crown

The Bulldogs gained their third consecutive Midwestern Conference championship, won the district tournament, and compiled an impressive 11 and 4 record behind the outstanding pitching of Dean Burk and Dan Yann. Dean's hurling drew the attendance of scouts from all of the major league teams and Mets' general manager Bing Devine. Dan also attracted attention from many colleges, scouts, and sports writers. Catcher Dennis Warning handled the other end of the battery with skill, and the other Bulldog teammates provided the essential hustling, timely hitting, and scrappy defense to give H.H.S. success. Wet weather forced the cancellation of five games and rescheduling of many more. The Bulldogs breezed through the district tourney, but lack of hitting and misplays brought defeat in the regionals by Alton who went on to win state honors. The Bulldogs clinched the conference title early, and their 8 and 2 conference record put them two games in front of second place Cahokia and Roxana.

Terry Metzger takes a mighty swing ... and scores another run for the Bulldogs.

Coach Kesner and his Bulldogs have a pep talk before clinching the Midwestern title.

Figures don't lie, and statistics show the reasons for Highland's success. Dean Burk had a 6 and 2 record with two no-hitters and two one-hitters. His earned run average was an impressive 0.50. The hard throwing hurler struck out 115 and gave up only 18 hits all season. Dan Yann's record was 5 and 1. The southpaw had only a 0.83 earned run average. He struck out 48 and allowed just 25 hits. The team's leading hitters were Dean Burk with a .333 batting average, Terry Jakel with .286, Craig Manwaring with .279, and Dennis Warning with .270. All nine starters contributed extra base hits.

Tracksters

Despite being handicapped by the lack of a track, Mr. Yarde's trackmen had the best track records in H.H.S. history and broke four records. The H.H.S. tracksters beat seven teams in dual and triangular meets including Roxana's perennially powerful team. However, the Bulldogs slumped to fifth place in the conference meet. Craig Manwaring, the team's highest point getter, set a new school record in the conference meet by running the 440-yard dash in 52.9 seconds. Brian Siever leaped 20 feet 6 inches in the long jump and 11 feet 6 inches in the pole vault for two new records. The mile relay team composed of Adrian Rogier, Dick Bircher, Dave Rehberger, and Craig Manwaring, eclipsed the old mark with a 3 minute 45 second time. Those boys who participated in the East St. Louis district meet were Brian Siever in the pole vault and long jump, Craig Manwaring in the 440-yard dash, Adrian Rogier and Chuck Roe in the 880-yard run, Barry Schuepbach in the high hurdles, and Dave Rehberger, Dick Bircher, Rogier, and Manwaring in the mile relay.

The many varied duties of Highland High's educators require interest and dedication. Lectures, demonstrations, and discussions help teachers bring life to subject matter found in books. A smile, a frown, a grimace are just some of the expressions of a teacher's mood as he stands before his class facing the challenge of shaping young minds.

Equations, formulas, and numbers constitute the atmosphere of Mrs. McDonald's math room.

Constantly Building a Better

Dedication is the creed of our faculty, administration, and the many others who work to make learning easier and better for the students of Highland High. These people willingly lend their talents to keep the wheels of progress forging steadily and smoothly ahead. Leadership is provided by the Board of Education and Mr. Stratton, our Superintendent of Schools.

We in the high school owe special allegiance to Mr. Paul Diefenbach, our principal, and his secretary, Lila Manville. Their efforts are readily evident in the efficiency with which the work about H.H.S. is completed.

Sandy Vosholler, Mrs. Eleanor Neudecker, Mrs. Esther Baumann, and Mrs. Lorena Senn keep the Main Office running smoothly.

Mrs. Lila Manville's duties as high school Secretary include helping lost Freshmen find their way and fitting sentimental seniors into caps and gowns.

This year marked the retirement of Rollie Senn who has been custodian at H.H.S. for thirteen years. His jocular personality made him a friend of both students and faculty. To all he became known as simply "Rollie."

Arno Hug and Dwight Rogier assume the task of keeping the high school spic and span.

With Hard Work and Dedication

Serving a balanced meal to students is the job of cafeteria workers Norma Mueller, Gladys Frey, Victoria Dunn, and Mildred Moore

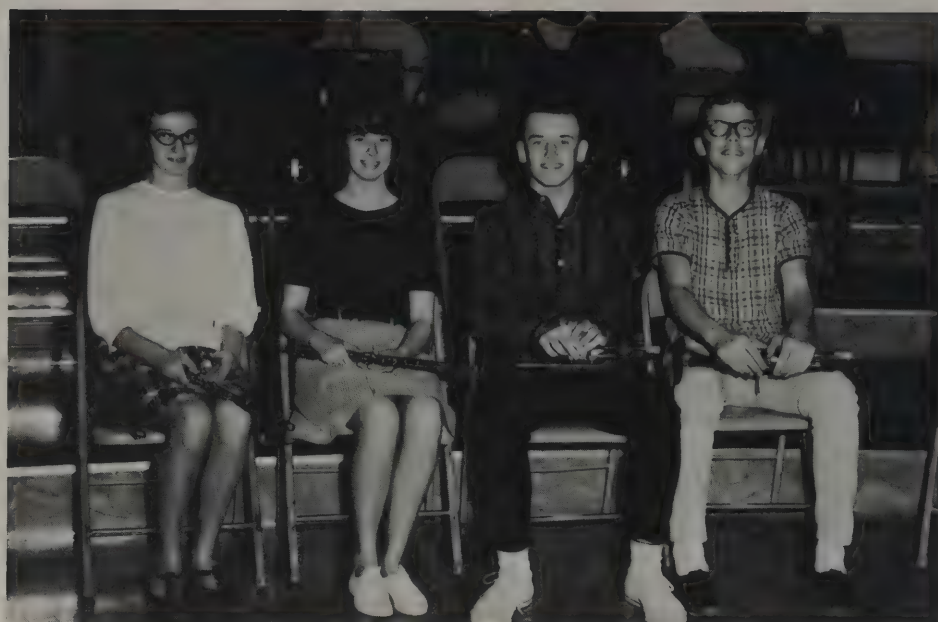

Student cafeteria helpers who work to keep the lunch lines short and the cafeteria running smoothly are Linda Zeller, Patti Ketchum, Joan Goestenkers, Vicki Vosholler, Diane Frey, Diana Smithe, Jolefe Orell, Ethel Zeller, Jane Habegger, Verna Demkey, Leonard Pollman, Nancy Mefert, and Cheryl Diesen.

Valedictorian Chuck Roe receives a helping hand with his gold cord from salutatorian Nancy Bosche.

Mortarboard caps, black gowns, gold cords, smiling and tear-filled faces, the moving words of the "Halls of Ivy"—all traditional parts of commencement exercises marked the end of four years of achievement for the Class of 1966.

Baccalaureate services were held May 22 at the Evangelical and Reformed United Church of Christ. Pastor Schoen gave the class some thoughts to ponder in his sermon, "There's a Time to Write, a Time to Erase."

The keynote speaker for graduation exercises was Dr. Frank Philpot of Illinois State University who charged the class to be filled with enthusiasm, thrust, and fuel as they faced the challenges of the Space Age.

Graduation, the culmination of goals of four years, is always a gay but sad occasion as class members wish one another well and solemnly march out of the gymnasium no longer as students of H.H.S. but as alumni of the school which has meant so much to them.

Graduation

Graduates, faculty, and parents listen attentively as Dr. Philpot delivers his address.

Graduating seniors join with chorus members for the last time to sing "Halls of Ivy."

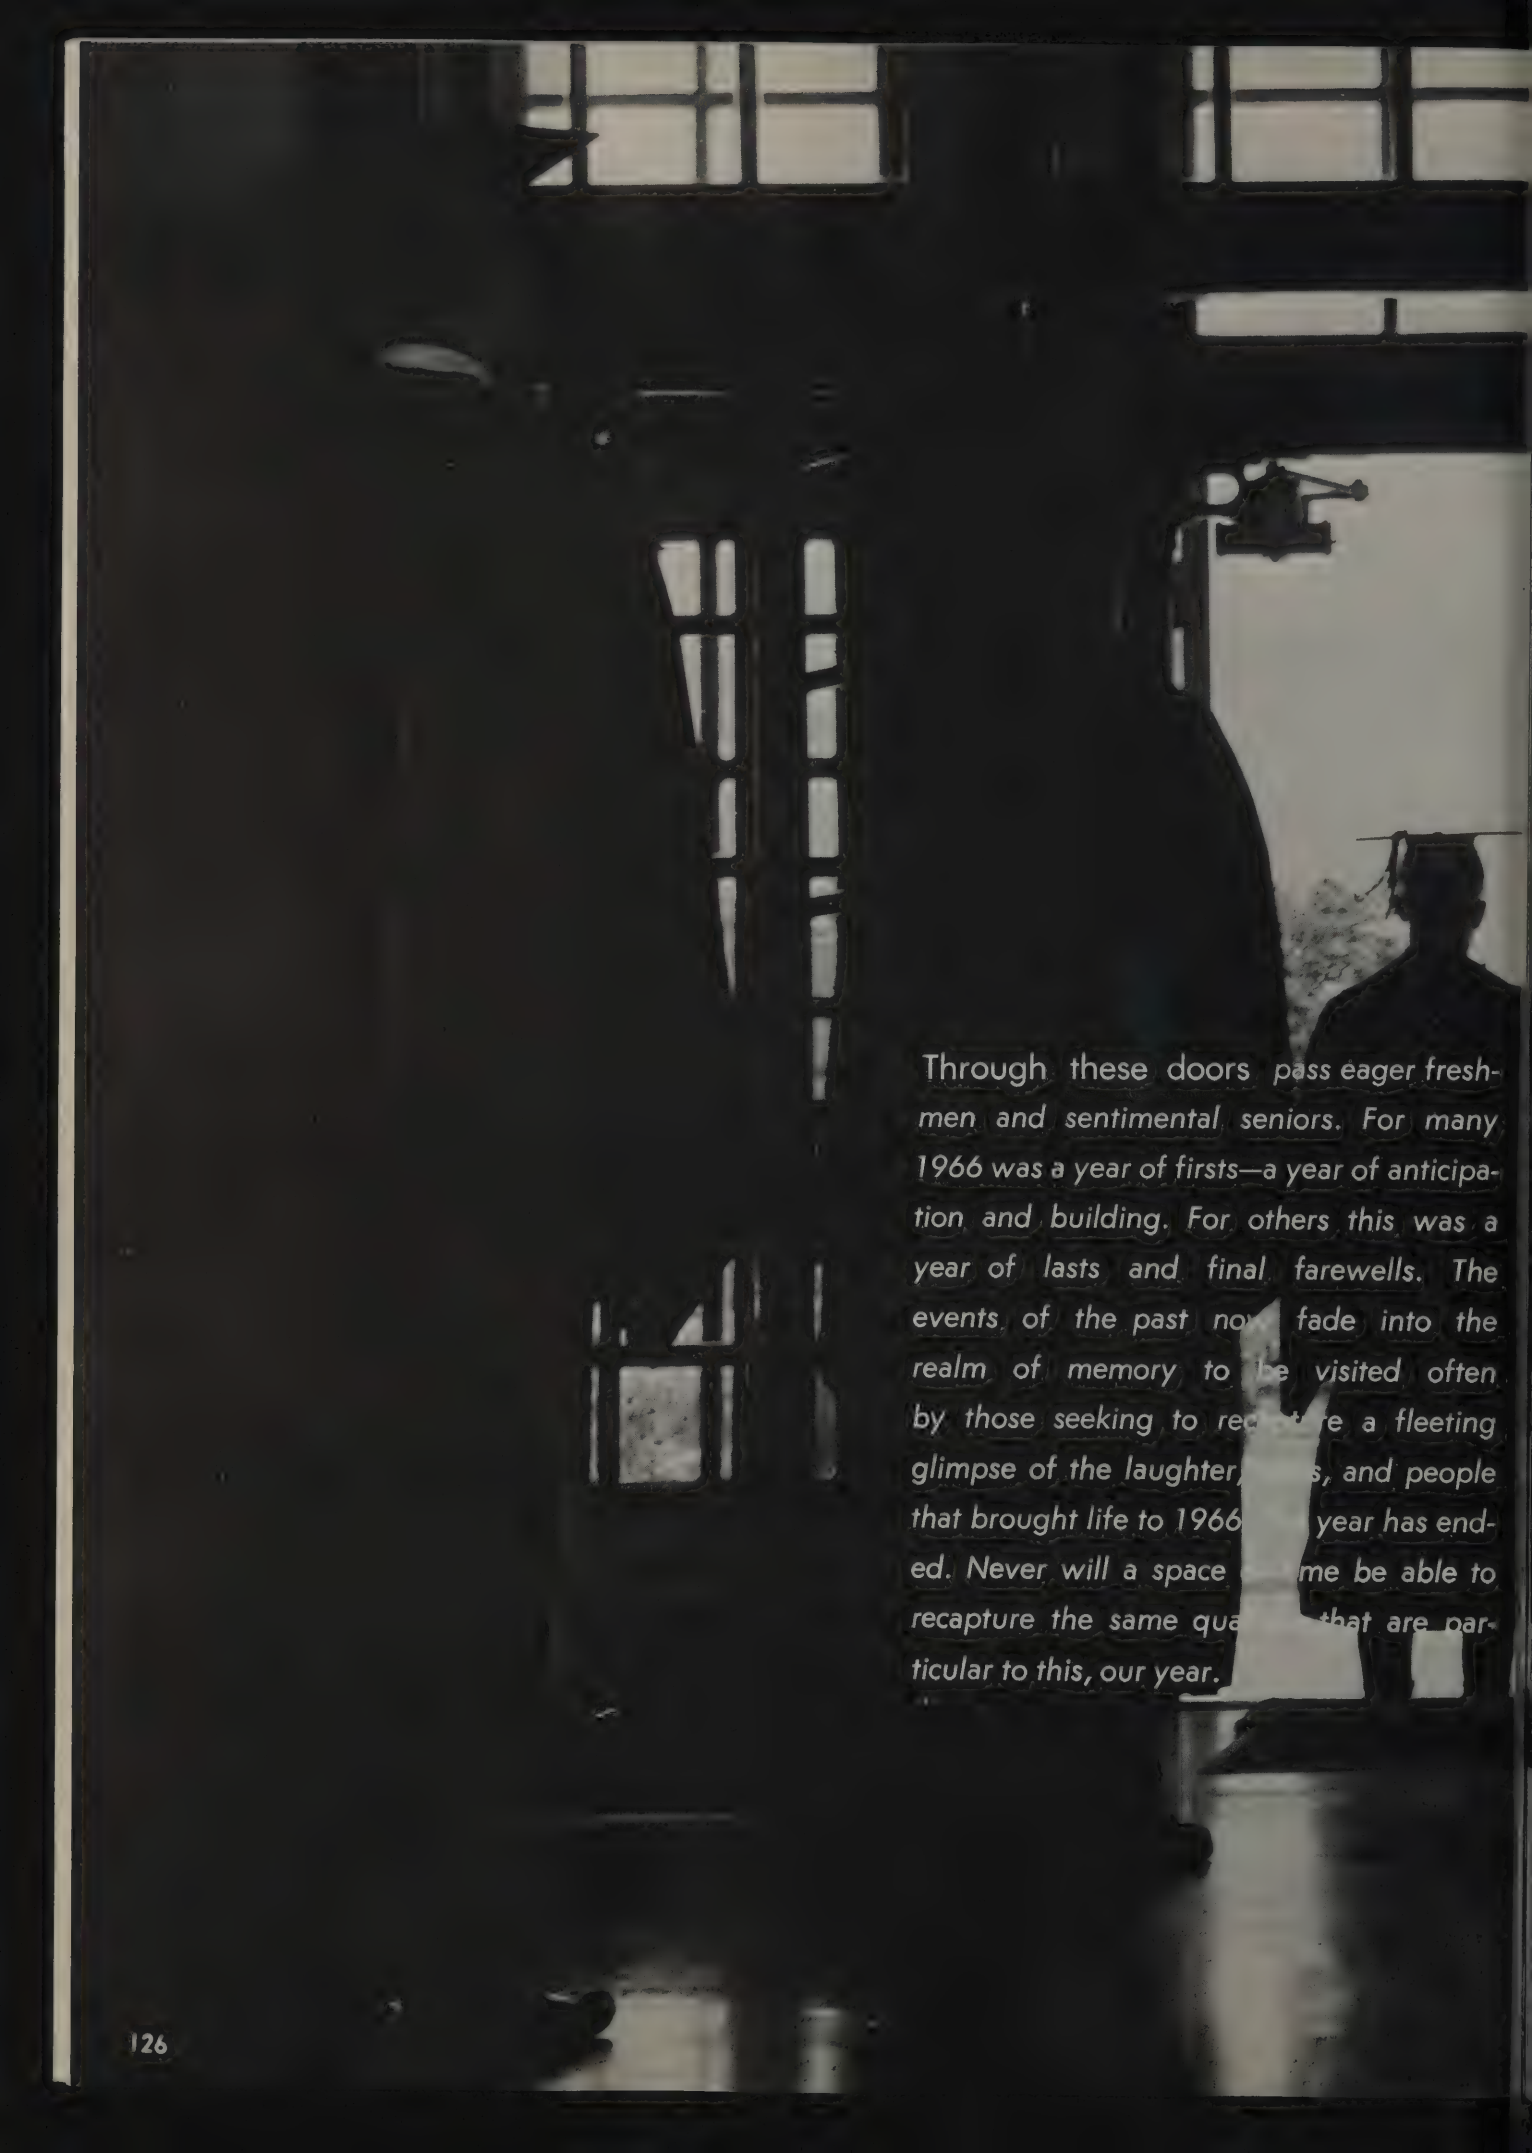

Carolyn Pollman helps Jill Rosenthal solve a tassel problem on graduation night.

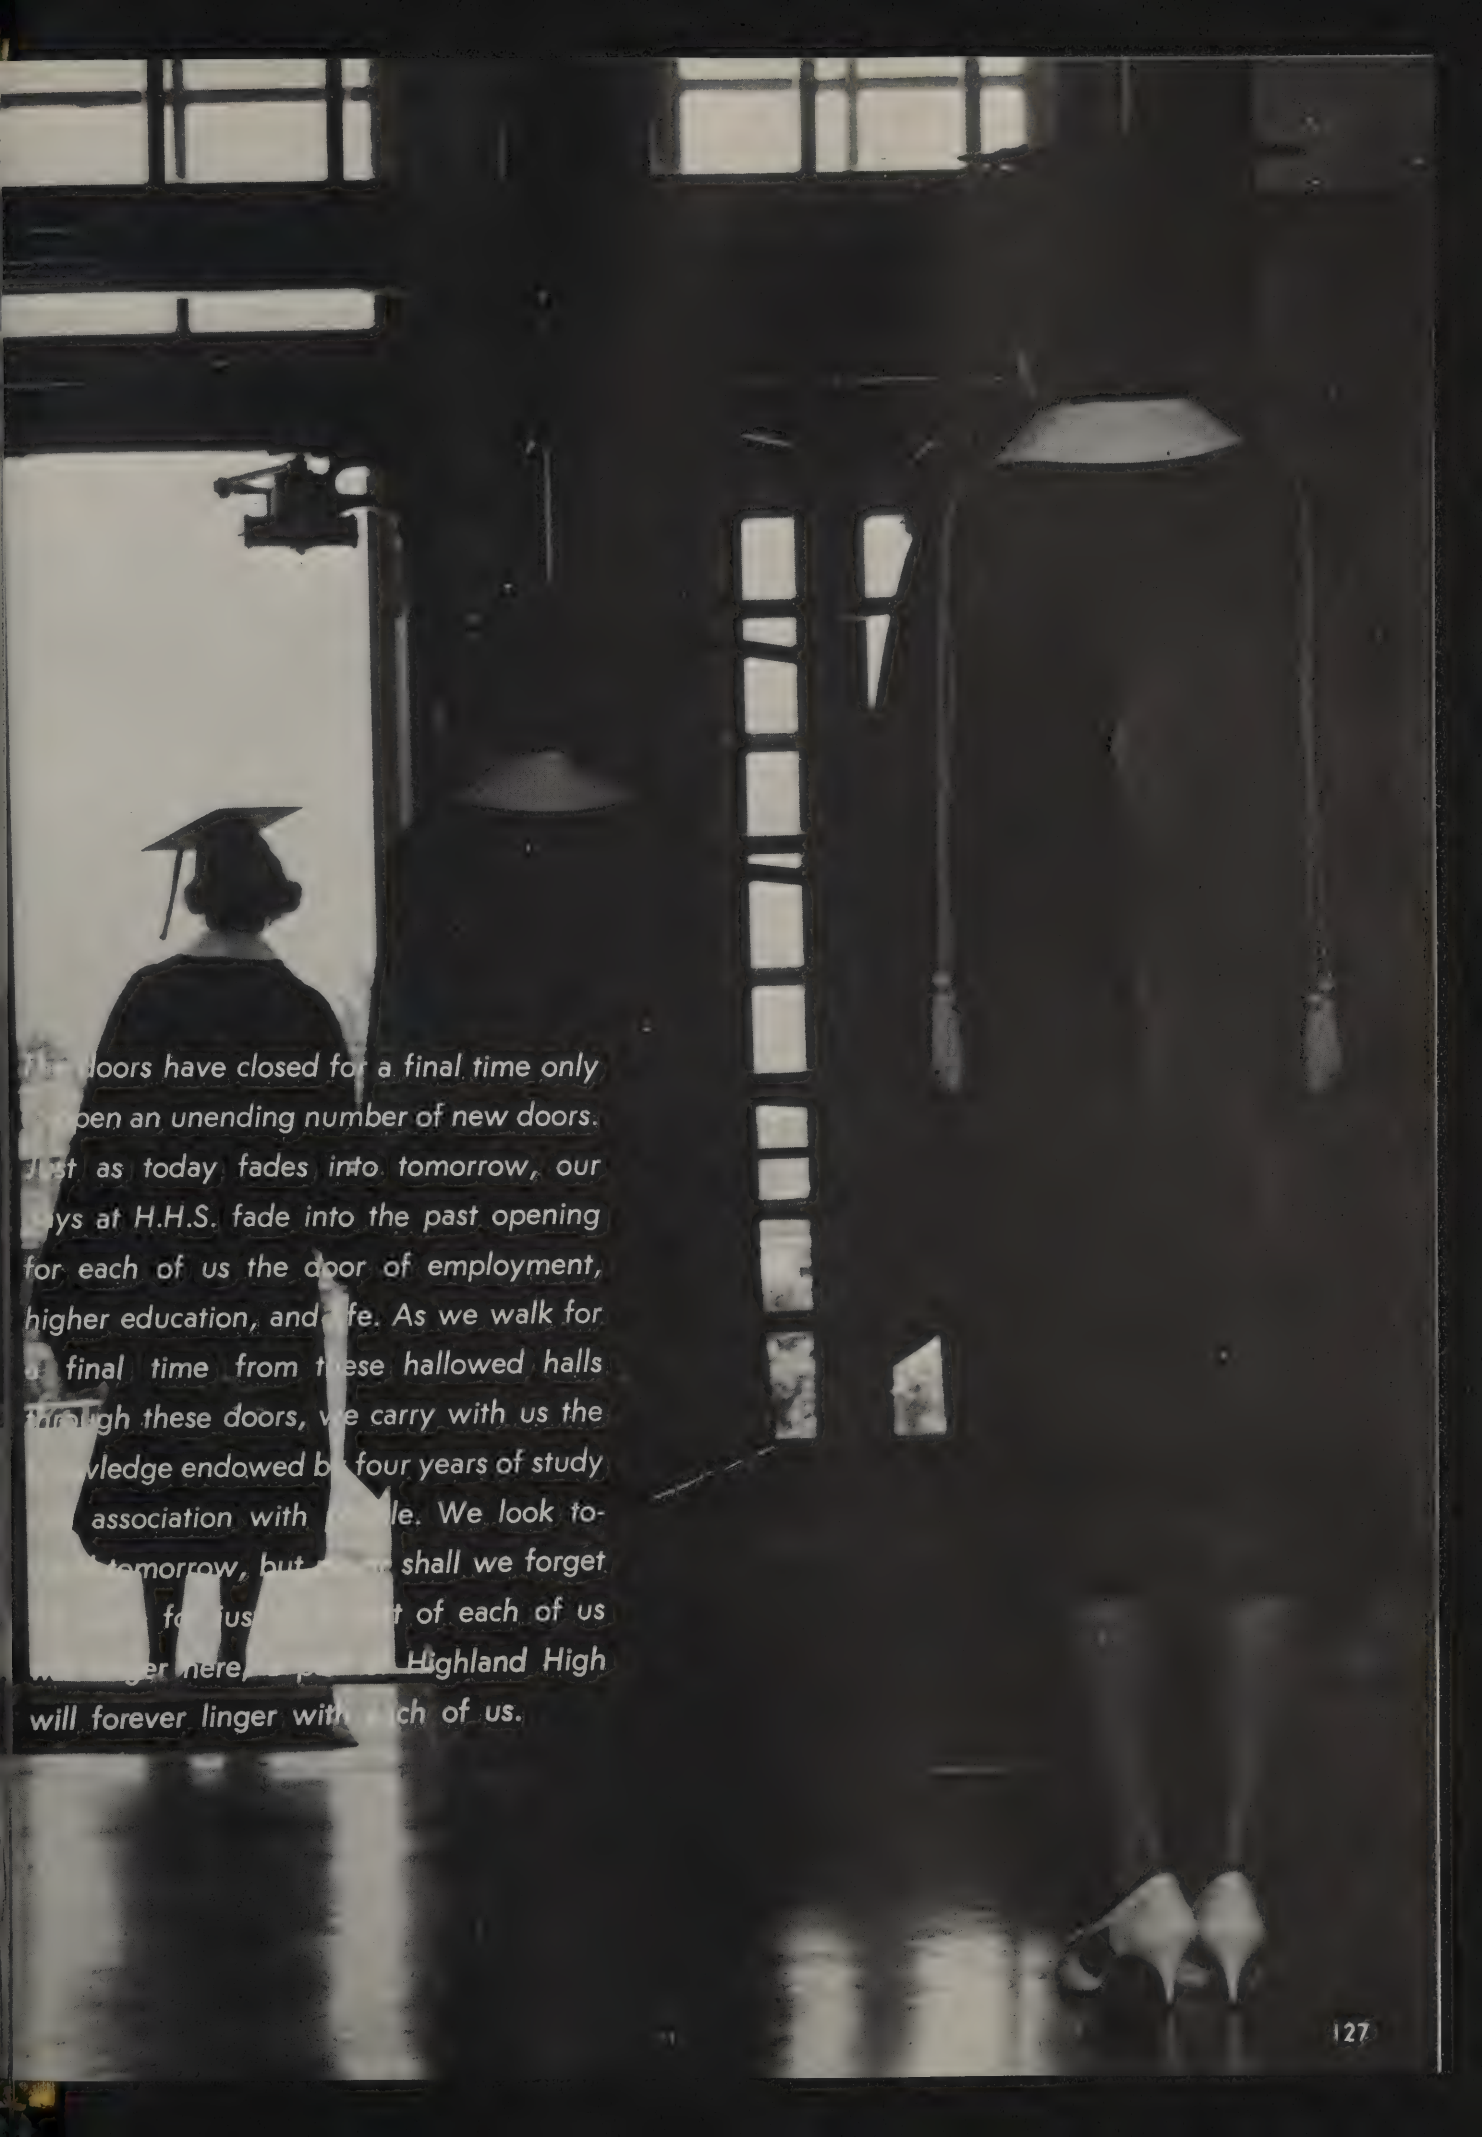

Marks Four Years of Achievement

Marshals chosen by the Class of 1966 to lead the processions at commencement exercises were Diane Hediger and Horst Driesner.

Through these doors pass eager freshmen and sentimental seniors. For many 1966 was a year of firsts—a year of anticipation and building. For others this was a year of lasts and final farewells. The events of the past now fade into the realm of memory to be visited often by those seeking to recapture a fleeting glimpse of the laughter, joys, and people that brought life to 1966. The year has ended. Never will a space become able to recapture the same qualities that are particular to this, our year.

The doors have closed for a final time only to open an unending number of new doors.
Just as today fades into tomorrow, our days at H.H.S. fade into the past opening for each of us the door of employment, higher education, and life. As we walk for a final time from these hallowed halls through these doors, we carry with us the knowledge endowed by four years of study and association with people. We look tomorrow, but we shall we forget for just the part of each of us who linger here, Highland High will forever linger with each of us.

Many people have shown their interest in Highland High's activities in educational programs. Many of them have also supported other school projects such as our 1966 Iris.

We, the members of the Iris Staff, would like to extend our sincere appreciation for the interest and support of our advertisers, who have made this publication possible.
